After reviewing the condition and crime existing in Ireland since 1833, Mr. Gladstone described the coercive legislation enforced during the same period as not exceptionable, but habitual. He compared Ireland during all this period to a man trying to find sustenance in medicine only meant for cure. Serious disaffection continued to prevail in Ireland, and if England and Scotland had suffered similar hardships he believed the people of those countries would resort to means similar to those the Irish had used to ventilate their grievances. [Parnellite cheers.] Coercion was admitted to have been a failure for the past fifty-three years, only two of which had been wholly free from repressive legislation. Coercion, unless stern and unbending, and under an autocratic government, must always fail. Such coercion England should never resort to until every other means had failed. What was

THE BASIS OF THE WHOLE MISCHIEF

Was the fact that the law was discredited.

Was the fact that the law was discredited it would be in Ireland. It came to the Irish people with a foreign aspect, and their alternative to coercion was to strip the law of its foreign character, and invest it with a domestic character. [Loud Irish cheers.] Ireland, though represented in Parliament numerically equal with Engiand or Scotland, was really not in the same position politically. England made her own laws. Scotland had been encouraged to make her own laws. The consequence was that the mainspring of law in England and Scotland was felt to be English or Scotch. The mainspring of law in Ireland was not felt by the people to be Irish. He therefore deemed it; little less than mockery to hold that the state of law which he had described conduced to the real unity of this great, noble, world-wide left the louse of Commons. It could not be questioned that its condi-tion was one of solidity and safety, comtion was one of solidity and safety, compared with that of the time when Hungary was making war upon her. The claim of Ireland to make laws for herself was never denied, continued Mr. Gladstone, until the reign of George II. The Parliament of Gratian was as independent in point of authority as it could be. They (the Government) were not about to propose the repeal of the union into the possible to propose the repeal of the union until they had settled what was the essence of the union; that whereas before the union there were two separate and independent Parliaments; where the union there was but one. To speak of the dismemberment of the Empire was in this country monstrous and an absurdity. The fault of the administrative system of Ireland was that its spring and source of action was English. With regard to the history of the land question, no man could know that until he had folfowed it from year to year, beginning with the Devon Commission, the appointment of which, in the speaker's opinion, did the highest honor to the memory of S.r Robert Peel. will accept the measure I propose. I hope they will, but I have no right to assume it, nor have I any right to enforce it upon the people of England and Scotland; but I rely upon the patriotism and sagacity of this House, on a free and full discussion, and, more than all, upon the just, generous sentiments of the two British nations, and, looking forward, I ask the House, believing that no trivial motive could have driven us, to assist in the work we have undertaken, a work which we believe will restore Parliament to its free and unimpeded course. I ask them to stay the waste of public treasure under the present system of government and administration in Ireland, which is not waste only, but waste which denoralizes while it exhausts. I ask them to show to Europe and America that we, too, can face the political problems which America had to face twenty years ago, and which many countries in Europe have been called on to face, and have not leared to deal with. I ask that we shall practice as we have very often preached, and that in our own case we should be firm and fearless in applying the doctrincs we have often inculcated in others, that the zoncession of local self government is not the way to sap and impair, but to strengthen and consolidate unity. I ask that we should learn to rely less on neere written stipulations and more on those better stipulations written on the heart and mind of man. I ask that we should apply to Ireland the happy experience we have gained in England and Scotland, where the course of generations has now taught us, not as a dre and or a theory, but as a matter of practice and life, that the best and surest foundation we can find to build on is the foundation afforded by the affections and convictions and the will of man, and that it is thus, by decree of the Almighty, that, far more than by any other method, we may be enabled to secure at once social happiness, power, and the permanence of the Empire.

Mr. Gladstone resumed his seat amid bursts of enthusiastic cheers, which were susta

When the applause had subsided, Mr. George Otto Trevelyan, who reactily resigned the position of Scerciary for Scotland, arose, and after enlogizing Mr. Gladstene's oration, proceeded to say that he interposed thus early in the debate in order to explain the reason of his resignation. He resigned with extreme compunction and regret, although the step, when finally decided upon, was taken with neither doubt as to its propriety nor the least he sit tion. He had joined the Cabinet because, as he considered at the time, to have remained outside would have been tantamount to a confession that the Liberal party was a home rule party. This was a confession which he should never be willing to make. He could never consent to such a scheme as Mr. Gladstone had proposed. He had done his best to prevent the Liberals from identifying themselves with what he regarded as neither for the welfare nor benefit of the country. Not longer ago than last June, the whole Cabinet was of the same opinion as himself. What was it, he would like to know, that had happened since then to change them? The only security, he urged, that Parliament would have, in acceding to Mr. Gladstone's plan, for the money they would be called upon to vote for the nucleus of the living londer desired. London, April 5th.—The scramble for seats in the House of Commons this morning was terrific among the outsiders. Ladies tegan to come at 10 o'clock, and at noon one could see Duchesses on the stairs eating penny hums while waiting for the doors to open. Later on a curious sight was presented in the Commons lobby, when the peers formed a crowd at the door of their gallery waiting for it to open, and were ordered about by the lackeys like common mortals. The Irish and Radicals derived great enjoyment from observing this scene. When the door was opened the peers made a grand rush, like a crowd in the gallery of a theater. Even dignified Lord Spencer jumped over the seats like a hoodhum, to gain the front row. The Prince of Wales, Prince Victoria and Prince Christian sat by the Clerk, watching the proceedings glumly. Members, strangers, peers and diplomets were all reached in libe carefront. proceedings glumly. Members, strangers, peers and diplomats were all packed in like sardines.

MR. GLADSTONE'S PLAN.

At this writing we have by the dispatches only incomplete statements of Mr. Gladstone's plan for the pacification and government of Ireland, as yesterday presented to Parliament. But, so far as we are now advised, the scheme is one that, while it appears to meet with favor from the Parnellites, is likely to divide Irish sentiment, though it would seem to have the strength in it to command the support the Government asks. It is perhaps not a matter betokening weakness that the landlord class in advance manifest disapproval of the scheme. Mr. Gladstone strikes the keynote of a great political principle when he declares that "the first condition of civilized life demands that the people have confidence in the law and sympathize therewith." On this rock he proposes to build an edifice that shall command the respect of the world. But the problem involved he states very plainly and simply when he says it is "to reconcile imperial unity with diversity of legislation." Whether a dual legislative and adminis trative body in Dublin will effect this under a Viceroy, so long as England retains control of the customs and the com mercial privilege, is much to be doubted. If there is any one thing besides the breaking down of landlordism that the Parnellites desire, it is control of the customs for the protection of Irish industries. toms for the protection of Irish industries.

This, we long since expressed the belief, England will never yield, not even if Mr. Gladstone should ask it. The Nationalists have uniformily held that they must be the content of the Chinese consulate here that any Chinese dignitaries were to arrive. ures. Said Mr. Parnell recently : "We shall insist upon a Parliament to protect Irish manufactures if it be the wish of the Parliament and of the Irish people." But says William Stephenson Gregg, "that this policy would be fatal to what little there is of Irish trade is the settled impression in England. But the trade of Ireland is moribund, it cannot be ruined: and if its bad case were made worse by protection the mistake could be remedied in a single day. We do not withhold the right of protection from our colonies. Firmly convinced of the benefits of free trade, we receive the products of Australia and Canada, and let those colonies levy duty on ours. Why should we treat Ireland in a less liberal manner?"

The Premier declares in favor of political equality for Scotland, Ireland and England, and a consequent equitable distribution of imperial funds. But the minority in Ireland, he adds, must be protected, and this is not the least of the greater difficulties before him. There are, as proposed, to be two houses of legislation, concurrence to enact being required. This body is to deal with laws affecting taxation, trade and navigation, coinage, weights, measures and the postal regulations, but, as we now understand it, all power of customs regula- the State? tion will remain with England, though the customs and excise income will be administered in Ireland for the discharge of Irish obligations. The new Parliament is not to interfere with the prerogatives of the Crown, or deal with affairs of the army or navy, or have anything to do with foreign relations or colonial affairs. All these are to remain with the general Parliament of gone. the empire. Against such provisions it would appear that the home rulers ought not to raise serious objection. Independence they have not expected nor asked. What Gladstone now offers is not to be captiously treated. It is provided that the Irish Lords shall be represented in the House of Lords, but at this writing the intimation is that Irish representation in the Commons will be meager. So far as outlined the scheme of the Government would appear to be one it will be able to sistain in Parliament, but it is too early to pronounce any decided opinion upon it. It is certain, however, that England is prepared to concede to Ireland to-day more than ever before, and out of this sentiment the hope springs that the beginning of the enl of the Irish question is at hand, and that in Irish councils will prevail the judgment, "We should take what is now tendered, else we receive nothing."

THE LATEST OUTRAGE UPON CHINESE.

The pro-Chinese sentiment is being worked for all it is worth just now. Now this whole story of the detention of the Chinese Minister and suite, whittled down, amounts to this: The Surveyor of the Port boarded the steamer in midstream. He extended his aid for the prompt landing of the Embassy. But its officials failed to give him any official proof as to who composed it. He asked for some evidence, for his passports or creditation of the metal of the control destials, or what not, and was told that the certificates or credentials of identity were in a sealed box, and would not be opened except at Washington. He could get Indeed, in Germany, Italy, France and Russia, our Ministers must exhibit passports. Yet the New York Times for the trifle of formality rendered. necessary by the Minister's laches, roars itself hoarse about the "hoodlums" of California and the grave insult to China. Its bias and prejudice and venom are clearly shown in its judgment of the case on hearing one side of the story. No just man ever forms a judgment upon an ex parte statement. He will presume always that one executing an official trust is pro ceeding lawfully and rightly, until the contrary is clearly shown. The one thing the just man is careful not to do is to ump at conclusions. The Collector and Sur eyor at the port of San Francisco are not ur political friends, but for that very reaon we should hesitate to judge them unheard. They have told their side of the story, and it completely refutes the ensational yarn Chang Tsai Ju hastened to telegraph to the East to give aid and mpetus to the pro-Chinese boom there. If any incivility was shown it was by the The Railroad Situation-Printer Chinese Minister and the Chinse Consul to the authorities of the United States and was premeditated by Colonel Bee for effect. As the Collector says:

I cannot see where the incivility comes in. The Consul should have notified me prior to the arrival of the vessel of the presence of the dignitaries, and I should then have detailed a special oficial to superintend their lishding. The whole fact of the matter is, I presume, that Consul Bee went down to the dock, and wished to show his superiors his vast influence over the American Government, by simply waving them in with his hand, as though it were a magician's wand, NELSON H. BAKER, District Attorney Westchester county, N. Y., office at White Plains, writes June 20, 1885: "Five years ago I, my two sons and wife were very liable to colds. We wore the heaviest clothing, wrapping ourselves up very warm; but it was colds, coughs and catarrh all the time. Finally we commenced wearing Allcock's Porous Plasters as chest protectors. The first year we got rid of our heavy flannel as well as all coughs and colds. We each wore two Plasters on the chest and pit of the stomach for three or four weeks at a once a noted African traveler and missionary, died in this city to-day, aged 69. He was very poor, but was kindly cared for by Christian people.

A tremendous popular active of the washed the parts with alcohol and put on fresh ones. They appeared to warm and invigorate the whole body so that we never took cold."

Victor Hugo defines paradise as "a counry where the parties are always young and the children always little.'

A Great Conflagration
That sweeps away a whole city, starfs from a flame so small that a glass of water would ex-tinguish it. In like manner, the most painful and fatal maladies of the throat and lungs ordinarily develop from small beginnings, not difficult of cure if promptly treated with the proper remedy. But their progress is insidious and delay may be fatal. Colds and coughs lead to Laryngitis, Asthma, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Consumption. The only medi-cine certain to cure every bronchial and pul-ary affection not absolutely incurable is Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. During 40 years it has steadily grown in popular estimation, and is now a household reliance in many thousands of families. Parents, whose lives were preserved by AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL when they were young, are now say. ing the lives of their children with it. Leading physicians extol its virtues and prescribe it in their practice. Colony Work at Sacramento. A meeting of a number of prominent citizens interested in immigration work, and in extending the trade influence of Sacramento, met at the Board of Trade rooms yesterday afternoon, with J. R. Watson in the chair. Dr. Latham submitted an offer from Messrs. Cox and Clarke to sell a portion of the San Juan grant to an association or syndicate of citizens of Sacramento, for the purpose of sub-dividing it into small tracts for colonisub-dividing it into small tracts for colonization. The land is situated on the north side of the American river, opposite to and above Routier Station. The land can be had, for the purpose indicated, at $25 per acre, and the amount thus obtainable is 3,800 or 5,000 acres, with water-ditches for irrigation already provided. Dr. Latham, who displayed a map of the premises, gave a statement concerning it, and strongly recommended its purchase, and sale in small pieces in connection with the immi-gration work. He stated that only a portion of the purchase price was required to be paid down; and the remainder could be allowed to remain unpaid, at a low rate of all apparently looking with favor upon the project presented. Among those who took part were J. R. Watson, Albert Gallatin, Dr. Latham, A. S. Hopkins, G. W. Chesley, T. B. Hall, David Lubin, S. P. Smith, Geo. O. Bates, R. D. Stephens, J. A. Parker, F. O. Bates, R. D. Stephens, J. A. Parker, E. K. Alsip, A. Leonard, A. Abbott and

As a result of the conference, a commit-tee, consisting of A. Abbott, R. D. Stephens, E. K. Alsip and F. R. Dray, was appointed to make a careful examination of the land and to report at a future meeting. Also, a Committee upon Colony Organization, to adopt a plan for the proposed association, was appointed, consisting of Albert Gallatin, G. W. Chesley and A. S. Hopkins. The meeting then adjourned for one week, when the report of the committees will be re ceived for consideration and such action as shall be deemed expedient.

An Escape Recaptured.

Officers Kent and Farrell took to the station-house late Wednesday night a man who gave the name of Henry Anderson. They found him sleeping in a box car, and concluded to give him a bed at the city's expense, and see what he looked like in the morning. Yesterday he was identified who was sentenced to imprisonment for months, on a charge of petit larceny. July 2, 1884, the offense consisting in giv ng a tamale man a one-cent piece as a $2 50 piece, and receiving from him $2 40 in change. After serving about seventy days, he escaped from the chain-gang and disappeared. It seems that he subsequently committed an offense in Placer county, and was sentenced to six months in the jail at Auburn, but managed to escape. Since try with Cole's circus, and by himself, going as far as New Orleans, but finally made his way back to this city. He says there is not much of his sentence left to serve, and he does not care greatly if he is compelled to fill out the time in the county

Serious Accident. Early yesterday morning a young man named Fred Colgrove, employed at the Pioneer Mill, and rooming at Thirteenth and F streets, was coming down to his work when the express train from the East came along, and he concluded to jump on and ride to the depot. Unfortunately he made a misstep, lost his hold of the plat-form railing and fell in such a manner that his right leg was run over below the knee, and the ends of the toes of his left foo were crushed. He was removed to his room and received surgical attendance, bu it was found necessary to amputate his leg man, of pleasant demeanor, and, although not a resident of Sacramento much over a year, having come here from New York, he has made many warm friends.

Board of Supervisors. The Board met yesterday pursuant to adjournment, all the members present. Minutes read and approved.

A petition of P. R. Beckley and thirtyone others, praying that a new road dis-trict be formed out of a part of District No. 13, lying south of the range line between townships 6 and 7, said line being known as the road from the Lower Stockton road to Elk Grove, was read and referred to the Committee on Roads, to report at to-day's Politicians to be Denied the Right of Choosing State Legislators and Congressmen.

Pursuant to a printed call that emanated from Eden Grange, at a regular meeting held in Luce's Hall, Haywards, Alameda county, Saturday, March 27th, a large num-had assembled as farmers for the purpose of conferring upon matters of interest to the farming population of the State. He said the first thing in order would be the election of temporary officers.

As such, Judge W. C. Blackwood, of Alameda, was chosen Chairman, and Mr. Hoffman, of Lodi, Secretary. On assuming the duties of the Chair, Judge Blackwood outlined the objects of the conference and read the printed call, which is as follows:

To the Members of Subordinate Granges of California—Brothers: The undersigned, a committee appointed by the members of Eden Grange, in open meeting called for that purpose, would respectfully invite your hearty cooperation in taking steps to put in the field, for the support of the people at the next general election, a non-partican State, Congressional and county ticket. To your committee the times seem propitious for the inauguration of such a movement. In the absence of great national party questions, agitating the public mind, the bitterness of party strife is allayed. Thinking people of every political shade of thought can now calmly confer together and consult on the best measures for promoting the public welfare.

The grievances of the agricultural and of all industrial classes are too numerous and too familiar to be repeated here, and the necessity for remedial measures are equally apparent. In pursuance of these remedial measures, we are of opinion that a conference should be had at as early a day as possible, for the consideration of the best means and plan of placing a ticket before the people for Legislative, Congressional and county officers, with power to appoint an executive committee, whose duties shall be to call Congressional and County Conventions and perform all acts necessary to carry out these several measures.

Recognizing the rule that partisan politics are To your committee the times seem propitious erform all acts necessary to carry out these everal measures.

Recognizing the rule that partisan politics are not a proper subject for discussion in the Grange, we assume this form of conference of members as a consultation of leading farmers upon the public matters in which the farming class is chiefly concerned, and we invoke the aid of all farmers, whether within or without our Order; and we suggest that the members of each subordinate Grange, in an open meeting held for that purpose, select delegates, not exceeding three in number, who shall be members of the Grange, or such farmers as would be entitled to membership therein, to meet at Grangers' Hall, in Sacramento, on Thursday, April Sth, at 11 o'clock A. M.

Committee.

The Chairman said the necessity for such action had been brought about more particularly by the excessive taxation of Alameda county. Last year the taxes in that county were largely in excess of that of preceding years, and in many instances ne profits of the farm were literally wiped ut by the amount of taxes the tiller of the soil was forced to pay—and for what? To meet the county and State expenditures. nd with greater rapidity than our increase and with greater rapidity than our increase in wealth and population warrants. The salaries of State and county officials to day were nearly as large as they were in the flush days way back in the fifties, when he farmers' profits were enormous. The profits on ranch products now are very small. Officials should be paid salaries in Their deputies should be fewer number, and should be compelled to do nore than draw their salaries. The sala-ies of the officials of Alameda county were rincely, and their deputyships dealt out of a few favorites who needed no ability nor recommendations, for all that was ex-pected of them was to put in an occasional appearance at the office, and to be able to raw down their six twenties at the end of e month. He said the statutes creating special commissions for alleged beneficia purposes should be scrutinized, and, i and not necessary, repealed. The Vagrant Act needs revising, so that abuses said to have grown up under it, may be medied. The necessity of appoint or a proper orters for our criminal Courts is a proper they? Where bject. Of what use are they? Where es of office are an incident of the office. they should constitute the rule of compen-sation of such official, and the abuses of he salary system be considered. A legal day's work of eight hours should be required of all public officials. Public justice and the public welfare demand that the Judges of our Courts should hold longer daily sessions than they are now in the habit of doing. The pay of County Supervisors should be reduced. These reforms in the interest of taxpayers could only be effected by legislative action. There is nothing to be hoped for from those who direct and control the two great politcal parties of the State. They have been tried time and again and found wanting.

The farmer and taxpayer, if they would relieve themselves from oppression and unjust taxation, must no longer consent to be led by selfish and unscrupulous politicions and depression and depr cians and demagogues, but must them-

Resolved, That the experience of the past years has been such as to convince the farming, producing and manufacturing portions of the voters of our State, that whilst they are, and have been from year to year, paying at least four-fitths of the taxes necessary to defray the cost of the State Government, and yet through the management of political parties their voices have been almost entirely tinheard in all legislative bodies; therefore, be it further Resolved, That we will no longer submit to such party rule, forcing us so corruptly to obey the dictations of party leaders; and that in the future no nominee shall receive our support for any office whose interests are not identified with our own, and in whose honesty and ability we have not the fullest confidence: and that if to carry out the spirit of this resolution we find it necessary to organize and enter into an independent farmer's and producer's political party, we are fully prepared to do so.

The Strike of Railroad Employes. St. Louis, April 8th .- All roads at East St. Louis have been largely reinforced by Deputy Sheriffs, who are armed with revolvers and Winchester rifles. The depot employes who were frightened away yes-terday are returning and trains are moving MASKED MEN TEARING UP TRACKS. Waco (Tex.), April 8th .- It was rumored early this morning that masked men had commenced tearing up the rails of the Missouri Pacific track, nine miles south of this city, and were preparing to burn the loen brot long bridge near there. The Sheriff and a morning. arge posse have gone to the scene.

INTERVIEW WITH POWDERLY. NEW YORK, April 8th.-The World's Labor was fully authorized to revoke his order to the strikers to return to work. He added: "The situation in the West is so complicated that it is extremely difficult for me at this distance to see what will be the outcome of it. So much bad blood had been stirred up on both sides now that it will take longer to bring about a settlement, if one can be brought about at all. I am isfied that the great majority of the men have their hearts in the right place, and have no wish or intention of violating the law, and are in hearty sympathy with the spirit and letter of my secret circular."
"Is it true that Gould was guilty of double dealing at the recent conference you had with him in New York?" "I do not care to go into that now, but I shall tell the whole story before this thing is over with. I will say, however, that at the conference with Gould and Hopkins my understanding was that Gould was willing to arbitrate. It made no dif-ference to me, as I told them, whether three, seven or more men were appointed to serve as arbitrators. The only point advanced was to have an arbitration, and that Gould conceded. We cannot have a national arbitration law that will be of much use, it seems to me. I have no fear about the future of the Knights of Labor. We have seen the last strike we will have peaceably.

FURTHER POINTS. Executive Committee had been consulted. special committee appointed to make a thorough investigation of the cause and everything relating to the strike. The comtee shall visit all points along the road and make most careful investigation of every detail. Persons found in any way to interfere, except in a peaceful and lawful manner with the running of trains, or the injury of the property of the railroad companies, wherever situated, will, if members of the Knights of Labor, be expelled and prosecuted. I propose that this investigation shall hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may. No organiza-tion can live and sanction violations of the laws that govern the land. When we have the light of this investigation we will be able to pass judgment on the conduct of will be appointed as soon as possible.'

Frank Lane, of Boston, was standing on the platform of the rear car at the time of the accident. He said he was startled by the bumping of the cars along the ties. He knew they had left the track, and jumped just as the train went whirling down the awful chasm. It was an awful night. Not a star was to be seen, and no light of the moon illuminated the fearful blackness over the scene. To add to the misery of the situation, snow soon commenced to fall, and, ir the fullest sense, it was a night of terror. Shrieks of the wounded rent the air, and their cries and groans were terrible.
